TWILIGHT CLUB DISCUSS THE WORK OF WALL STREET

IMPORTANT WORKINGS OF COUNTRY'S FINANCIAL CENTER CONSIDERED.

PROF. SCOTT'S ADDRESS

Described Principal Institutions of Wall Street and Noted Some of the Problems and Remedies.

At the second session of the Twilight Club, held at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening, the topic for discussion was "The Work of Wall Street." Attorney M. O. Mount acted as leader and the members on the program were instructive as well as interesting.

Before the program of the evening was taken up, the regular business of the club was transacted. A report of the committee on schools was read by A. C. Campbell. The award which had been made by the committee for the most attractive school grounds in the city was as follows: First place to the Douglas school with D. D. Bennett janitor; second to the Spring Brook school and third to the Webster. J. H. Humphrey was chosen leader of the January meeting.

S. M. Smith was the first speaker on the program. His topic was "Underwriting." In a brief and comprehensive talk he treated the nature and importance of this modern form of finance was clearly presented. Underwriting, said Mr. Smith, in substance, is the conduct in the guaranteeing by some syndicate of capitalists organized for that purpose, of an issue of bonds of some company who is in need of financial aid. The underwriters may advance the entire amount of the money required or they may give only a part of it and depend on the future sale of the bonds to bring in the remainder when it is needed. At any rate they must insure and guarantee the issue of the company's bonds and may be held responsible for the money they represent.

One of the first underwriting syndicates was introduced in France about 1800. In 1870 J. P. Morgan organized a syndicate to pay the debt incurred by France during the Franco-Prussian war. It was a hazardous undertaking but the risk was assumed and a very large profit of something like five million dollars was the result. The next great scheme of this nature was the financing of the United States civil war debt which was assumed by Cook, later by the firm of Cook, Successors and Morgan. They were very successful in placing the debt and as a result of their efforts the credit of the country was raised from a six per cent to a four per cent basis. After these government bonds were refunded there were no more great undertakings for the government, so attention was turned to the financing of the railroad and other great companies which were springing into existence at this time. Perhaps the largest of any of these projects was the financing of the United States Steel corporation by Morgan and his friends. They had to insure the raising of 200,000,000 dollars, but the time was so opportune for the forming of this company that it was necessary for them to put in only twenty-five million, so easily were the stocks disposed of. Their per cent was to be twenty per cent of the whole amount guaranteed or one hundred and sixty per cent on the amount which they had to put in.

These are but some of the instances of the underwriting schemes which are the common and necessary thing for the raising of funds to finance some undertaking. Sometimes unscrupulous people organize syndicates and when they are unable to dispose of a bond issue it causes a flurry in Wall Street which may materially hurt the interests of the country. These cases are uncommon, however, and most of the underwriting is handled by private banking institutions who are entirely reliable.

Criticism is sometimes made against these syndicates because of the enormous profit which they realize and because they often times draw capital from one locality to another, leaving some places destitute of money. Remedies which have been suggested for this are the establishment of laws preventing the influx of capital. It must be admitted, however, that underwriting has done an enormous amount of good for the country and without this system it would have been impossible to build the great financial framework of the country, or to finance some of its gigantic undertakings.

"Foreign Exchange" was the subject of a paper by William O. Newhouse, and the speaker entered into some technical details regarding this important function of our financial system. "Foreign exchange" operations," said Mr. Newhouse, in part, "may be termed an international self-adjusting clearing house. In the early days barter or exchange of commodities was the only system known, but with the introduction of the money and the gold standard the question of the balance of trade arose.

Various items enter into the incoming and the outgoing trade of the country. On the one side they constitute the credits of the country and on the other the debit. The function of balancing off the credit of one country constitutes the function of foreign exchange.

"London has been the great clearing house for the world, the reason probably being that gold has been the standard of that country for such a long time. The fixed par of exchange between England and the United States is $4.866.

"Exchange may be either direct or indirect; that is, credits and debits of two different countries may be directly balanced against each other or a third country may be included in the balancing process in which case the exchange is indirect. Bills of exchange are bought and sold on the market the same as any other commodity. Their price is regulated in part by the law of supply and demand and also by the cost of shipping gold. If bills of exchange can be bought for less than $4.85 an influx of gold is the result but when the price goes above $4.85 gold is scarce and the flow is in the opposite direction. The general tendency is for gold to go where it is most needed and where the interest rates are the highest.

"Bills of exchange offer the one great means of settling the balance of trade between foreign nations and are indispensable as a part of our financial system."

Prof. Wm. A. Scott, head of the department of commerce at the University of Wisconsin, gave the main address of the evening. He covered the institutions of Wall Street and pointed out their relations to the country as a whole, noted some of the problems connected with its financial mechanism and suggested some possible remedies. Professor Scott said in part:

HIGHWAY MATTERS BEING DISCUSSED

SKAVLEM'S REPORT ON WORK IN COUNTY READ THIS AFTERNOON.

STARR WAS REELECTED

Supervisor of Assessment—Will Visit County Farm Tomorrow on Tour of Inspection.

Yesterday afternoon the county board after fixing the salary of the supervisor of assessments at the same as heretofore and stipulating that his bond should be $1,000, re-elected Frank P. Starr to the office. Today a resolution was passed ordering him a deputy at $2 a day with the proviso that said deputy should not work more than fifty days in any one year. The bond of the county treasurer which has heretofore been for $152,000 and cost $55 was cut down to about $15,000, owing to the fact that the bank deposits of the funds also give sureties. The bonds will be fixed at a sum equal to 20 per cent of the tax levy.

Abstract Proposition.
In accordance with a resolution offered by Supervisor Gottle and passed, the county will hereafter contract with the registrar of deeds as an individual and not as an officer to carry on the abstract business. Meanwhile the Rock county representatives in the legislature will be requested to use their influence to secure the amendment of chapter 236 of the laws of 1910 in such a fashion as to permit counties with a population of 50,000 or over as well as those with 60,000 to engage in the abstract business, in order that the local system may be "expressly authorized." A committee composed of Supervisors Gottle, C. M. Smith, and W. P. Sherman has been delegated to contract with F. P. Smith, the newly elected registrar of deeds, with reference to the abstracts, and also with E. H. Hanson, the new sheriff, for the board of prisoners.

Training School.
Committee 10 will make a detailed inquiry into the bills of $168.75 and $9 presented by Stark and Green counties for the tuition of Rock county students in their county training schools, reporting the results and also their ideas regarding the advisability of establishing such a school in Rock county at the January session.

Highway Confab Opens.

Highway Commissioner Skavlem's report and the report which Supervisor Richardson demanded from the committee on highways were made a special order of business for two o'clock this afternoon. The committee on highways consisted of S. S. Jones who resigned his position on the county board to become a candidate for highway commissioner, as chairman, Supervisor Moore as secretary, and Supervisor Tredegar.

Mr. Skavlem in opening his detailed report of such roads as he deemed finished and ready for acceptance said that a good deal of unfair criticism of his department had arisen from the impression that some of the unfinished roads upon which the highway committee necessarily reported somewhat unfavorably last year were popularly supposed to have been regarded by himself and associates as finished. Work done on the Milton-avenue, Milwaukee road, and numerous other highways was described in detail and their present status noted. Mr. Skavlem called upon the chairman of the towns to corroborate his statements regarding their present good status and they did so in every instance.

Supervisor Moore of the highway committee, however, refused to answer any questions, stating that his committee had not expected to report until January and that he had not expected to be chairman. One person should not speak for the committee and he feared that if he attempted to talk as an individual undue weight might be attached to what he said. The notes he had taken as secretary would have to be compiled and approved by Mr. Tredegar before he could present any views whatsoever. Later on, however, Supervisor Rouch asked Mr. Moore if he thought poor material had been used on the Milton Junction road and after some hesitation he answered: "No."

Mr. Skavlem was still reading his long account of his stewardship at three o'clock. It was expected that things would begin to get interesting immediately after its completion.

"Old World's" the Best.

Some of the world's greatest statesmen have proven that it takes the experience and hand of old age to run the machinery of nations. Gladstone was four times prime minister of Great Britain. Long after his fiftieth birthday he extended the island empire until the sun never sets on its dominions. He was guiding the ship of state when he was four score and it was after that age he attempted the greatest task of his life, that of granting home rule to Ireland.

Looking Ahead.

Some men pay their debts promptly merely for the purpose of establishing credit that they may some time abuse.

"PATHFINDER" CAR GOT HERE AT 9:25

Explorers Tracing Out Route For 1911 Reliability Run Will Be Glad To Be Home In Milwaukee

None of the curious onlookers who witnessed the arrival of the "Pathfinder" car which is tracing out the route for next year's Wisconsin reliability run, having the fuelled passengers as they disembarked at the Hotel Myers corner at 9:25 this morning. To the uninformed, at an early automobile when the wintry winds are blowing loose about ninety-nine and thirty-three one hundredths per cent of its glamour.

The passengers were M. C. Moore, president of the Wisconsin Automobile association, and wife, George W. Browner, and Manning Vaughan, sporting editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. "We left Madison at 7:15 this morning and hope to reach Milwaukee between four and five o'clock this afternoon, making the round-trip of the 147-mile trip via Beloit, Delavan, Elkhorn, Burlington, Kenosha, and Racine," said Mr. Moore as he carefully whistled a particularly long telegraph of his mustache and made a dash for the temporary indoor comfort of the hotel steam radiators.

The pathfinders have cut across the state north and south and east and west, traveling as far toward the pole as Marinette, and westward to La Crosse. There was some rough riding between La Crosse and Madison and also in the northern part of the state but neither troubles have been few and lack excellent. The explorers will be glad to get home.

ENGINEER PINNED IN BY BROKEN ROD

Engineer Thomas Cummisford narrowly escaped death in engine cab this morning.

Engineer Thomas Cummisford, running engine 1379 on passenger train No. 105 between Janesville and Davis Junction on the St. Paul road, had a narrow escape from death just after starting out this morning. The right side rod of the engine broke when the train was about three miles from this city, a hole torn in the cab on the engineer's side, and the air pump broken off. Cummisford was pinned in between the broken side rod and the engineer's valve and was unable to release himself. Had the rod broken off a few inches longer, it would undoubtedly have resulted disastrously for the engineer. The train was unable to continue the journey, and after sending out flagmen to protect the train from danger of being run into by another train, a messenger was sent to Janesville and another engine went to the relief, towing the train to the city.

HEAD OF ENGLAND'S COURT SYSTEM.

Lord Alverstone, the lord chief justice of England.

London, Eng.—Particular significance attaches to the English court system in view of the clear-cut decision in the Crippen case, occupying only a fraction of the time like cases consume in America.

Lord Alverstone, who has been lord chief justice of England for the last ten years is one of the strongest as well as one of the ablest of those who have filled the high position. He was born in December, 1842. Educated at King's college school at Chesham and at Trinity College, Cambridge, he was "called" in 1868. Ten years later he became a Q. C. From 1885 to 1886, and from 1886 to 1892, and from 1895 to 1900, he was attorney general. Amongst other positions he has held those of Treasurer and Postmaster of the Court of Exchequer. In 1900 he became lord chief justice.

Taught Him to Control Temper. James G. Blaine used to say he was thankful he had just enough of a temper to show him by the errors it made him commit in little things how fatal it would be to give way to it in big things.

A Needed Change.

The navy department once received from the commander in chief of the fleet an official communication relative to certain changes recommended by him to be made in the uniform shirt of the enlisted men. In accordance with custom this letter was forwarded to various officials for comment or expression of opinion, the remarks of each officer being appended on an endorsement slip. Each endorsement introduces the subject matter of the letter in a brief, and one of them thus tersely explained the contents: "Commander in chief desires to change shirt."—Lippincott's.

Golf Rules Worth Heeding.

Lord Avebury, the lord rector of St. Andrews University of London, in the course of an opening address offered the following advice: "Keep your eye on the ball. Keep straight. Keep in the course. Take time. Do not press—never up, never in. Don't lose heart. Be temperate in all things. Keep your temper, or you'll lose the game." From which it may be seen that the rules of golf make a fairly good philosophy to live by.

WORSTED IN FIST FIGHT NEAR RIVERSIDE HOTEL

George Ostrander Required Services of Physician After Encounter With Hart Caves.

George Ostrander, who lives on Holmes street, and Hart Caves, a boarder at the Riverside hotel who has been working for Contractor Rutledge, had a wordy altercation in the hotel bar last evening and finally went outside to settle their differences. At the urgent request of the manager, Mr. Ostrander had one eyetooth bugged up that it had to be lanced by Dr. Bartlett this morning and Caves was taken to the lock-up. Dr. Bartlett visited Caves at the jail before his case was called for trial and collected $5 for medical services rendered by his assistant. In court Caves pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery and his hearing was set for tomorrow morning. Being unable to furnish $200 bonds he was remanded to the county jail pending the hearing. Ostrander did not appear in court against him. The physician said he had some "temperature" and was staying indoors.

SPRING ELECTIONS TOPICS DISCUSSED

Prohibitionists Planning for Spirited Campaign in Janesville This Coming Spring.

There is a prospect that the coming spring election, when the city clerk and members of the common council and supervisors are to be named, will see at least three parties in the field with complete tickets and possibly four. The prohibitionists are contemplating laying siege to the political field and at a meeting held last evening at Reverend L. A. McIntyre's residence, 54 Milton avenue, tentative plans were discussed with this in view.

Twenty active workers in the cause of prohibition were present and a temporary organization with M. S. Kellogg, as president; S. M. Johner, vice president; S. Richards, secretary, will have charge of the work. J. B. Smith, state chairman of the prohibition committee was present as was William Dean of Beloit. The club organized is to be part of the state wide movement of the cold water advocates.

If the prohibitionists enter the political field with a ticket as well as asking a vote on license or no license and the Social Democrats will place their ticket in the field it will prove an interesting campaign. As it is both the republican and democratic parties will have full tickets out and the prohibitionists will add zest to the campaign.

A "FIBREX" TUB IS ALWAYS NEW

The best thing about the wonderful Fibrex ware is that it's just as good after years of hard service as it was when new.

Though Fibrex is the lightest ware made it is more reliable than galvanized iron. It can't leak and there's nothing about it to rust. It never gets soggy or falls to pieces like a wooden tub.

And it's always sweet and wholesome; for it can't absorb odors, and there's not a crack or joint to catch dirt and germs. It's cleaned in an instant.

Try one and prove it.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Lifted Lake

WHEN the merry mice reached the nursery and wakened the twins last night, they saw at once that something was wrong. And Davy's first words told them which way the wind was blowing in Doverville.

"Poor old Deacon Swift!" said the little boy, half-crying as he told his story. "He's so nice and so good to us kids, and that mean old Squire Dwight vows the deacon stole his millpond and turned it into a lake—and he's going to put him in jail!"

"Yes," said Dorfy, sadly, "and you forgot to have the river stretch any, and it broke right off and is leaking all over the railroad tracks, and they say the trains won't dare run through Doverville any more till it's fixed. Daddy's afraid the railroad company will sue everybody in town and make 'em pay a lot of money, and—and first thing we know, he says, we won't have enough left to buy candles for our next Christmas tree! Can't you fix it, somehow, Mr. Ticklemouse?"

"Fix it? Bless your dear heart, of course!" The mouse kissed her and patted Davy and told him to cheer up. The twins were smiling in a twinkling, for Mr. Ticklemouse has a wonderful way with him. They had forgotten their fears when they reached the shore of the movable millpond.

"Let me think," said the mouse to Willy Wishingmouse and the twins. They let him think.

"Whistle me some angworms out of the sandbank over there," he said.

At last, "Two or three dozen of them."

Davy and Dorfy heard Willy piping a soft, strange little tune like a snake charmer's song. Soon he came toward them, followed by a small army of angworms. These the Ticklemouse arranged in a row like a pack of trained seals—on the side of the pond that faced Squire Dwight's farm.

"Now, Willy, you stand on one leg and be ready to freeze the pond when I give the word. Look sharp, now!" He waved his paws in the moonlight air—there came a rush and a mighty splash—and the sky was darkened by a school of leaping fish. They turned graceful somersaults above the water, suddenly growing to giant size, and all falling back at the same moment, tails first. "Now!" cried the Ticklemouse to Willy—and Willy shot one eye. Like a flash, the millpond turned to a great sheet of ice the fishes frozen fast by the tips of their tails!

A magic word from the mouse, and the waiting angworms began wriggling toward Squire Dwight's farm, growing as they ran. The captive fish stopped squirming for a moment when the tempting bait caught their eye—then lunged with all their might toward their prey. Once, twice—and the frozen pond was lifted clear up on edge like a big glass saucer. Three times—and the frantic fish had dragged the pond clear back to its old home on Squire Dwight's farm. It dropped into its former hollow as a gopher pops into its burrow—the Lifted Lake was home again!

THE OIL SUIT IS HIT HARD

FEDERAL JUDGE DWARF'S MONETARY FEATURES OF STANDARD INDICTMENT.

PENALTIES ARE BADLY CUT

True Bill Against Indiana Corporation Recites 1,524 Offenses, While Evidence Admitted Shows Only 48 Liable Transactions.

Jackson, Tenn., Nov. 16.—The indictment against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in which the government sought to have penalties aggregating $300,000 assessed against the concern, on the Grand Junction conspiracy charge was shown of its magnitude by a decision in the federal court here.

The prosecution met reverses in a ruling of Judge John McCall in the United States circuit court as to a point of law which in one swoop dwarfed the monetary features of the issue by exactly $29,134,000, and in general played havoc with the bill of charges as set up by the government.

Offenses Are Reduced.

In effect it was the ruling of Judge McCall that within the meaning of the Illinois law governing interstate commerce, the statute which forms the basis for the suit, a settlement and not an individual shipment constitute an offense. In the indictment as returned it is charged that the Indiana corporation committed 1,524 offenses, basing each of the counts on a railroad shipment of petroleum or the products of petroleum from the company's refinery at Whiting, Ind., to points in the southeast through Grand Junction, Tenn.

Evidence presented and declared admissible shows only forty-six settlements, all bi-monthly transactions between the Standard Oil company and the carriers named in the bill during the years covered, 1903 to 1905. Hence, should the defendant company be found guilty on all charges now standing, the maximum penalty possible to be assessed would be $300,000. For each offense the statute provides $20,000 may be taxed. The minimum is $1,000.

Final Ruling Not Made.

Of secondary importance only in that a final ruling was not made, Judge McCall also held tentatively that dates shown in the indictment should conform to the proof tendered. If made final this would develop a variance fatal to the indictment, its allegations being timed in accordance with the dates the shipments left the Whiting refinery, while the settlements for freight charges were in reality made several weeks later.

The trial along the restricted lines was resumed. The prosecution, it is announced, will now endeavor to have the much debated 13 cent rate from Whiting to Grand Junction "for points beyond" proved illegal.

GOES TO GIVE KAISER HELP.

Orville Wright Will Aid German Ruler in Aviation Matters.

New York, Nov. 16.—Orville Wright, one of the sky pilot brothers, sailed for Europe on the steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie to help Kaiser Wilhelm improve the aerial equipment of the imperial German army. At present the German army is behind that of France in the line of heavier-than-air fighting equipment. The German government is said to have placed a large order with the Wrights for the new designs of Wright racers and touring planes.

MONTANA IS SURE DEMOCRATIC.

Official Returns Give Party Majority of Two in Legislature.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 16.—So far as its federal senatorship is concerned, Montana has joined the rest of the nation in the Democratic tidal wave, official returns giving that party a net gain of one each in the senate and house and making the legislature stand 52 Democratic and 50 Republican, with indications that the Democrats may gain still another vote or two. The canvassing boards in Butte, Helena and Phillipsburg finished their labors with the result indicated.

JOHN D. IS $2,500,000 RICHER.

$10 Standard Oil Dividend Adds to Wealth of Other Millionaires.

New York, Nov. 16.—At least $2,500,000 was added to John D. Rockefeller's wealth by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $10 a share on the stock of the Standard Oil company. The rate is 40 per cent. a year. Rockefeller owns about $2,500,000 of the dividend, the Pratt estate $520,000, Oliver H. Payne $400,000, Henry M. Flagler $305,000, the Jennings estate $117,000 and William Rockefeller $117,000.

The Care of the Bathroom

The bathroom should be given a daily cleaning and weekly scrubbing. For cleaning the bath tub nothing is better than a solution made by dissolving Gold Dust scrubbing powder in water. Thoroughly scrub and scald tub, basin and closet with the hot suds and pour down the pipes boiling water to which has been added Gold Dust in proportion of two tablespoonfuls of Gold Dust to every gallon of water. Clean the nickel and brass fixtures in bathroom by rubbing with equal parts of whiting and Gold Dust washing powder.

HADLEY RAPS COURTS; SAYS ROOSEVELT RIGHT

Missouri Governor Attacks Judicial Methods Before Federation of Labor Convention.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 16.—Governor Hadley in a speech before the American Federation of Labor convention here advocated fewer judges and more justice and at the same time upheld Theodore Roosevelt's denunciation of the courts.

"I believe and every honest man believes," said he, "that there should be just criticism of any public official, whether a judge or any other official." This sentiment aroused the greatest enthusiasm in the convention. "Roosevelt was right when he denounced the courts, because they are governed by their environment. The great trouble with the judges, they live within their own environment, and their decisions are made accordingly," said Governor Hadley. "It might be a narrow environment; it might be a large environment, and as lawyers know why they make a decision."

"I believe in an employers liability law that does not take into consideration the fellow servant or the assumption of risk. I am prepared to appoint a commission of labor, lawyers and citizens to draw up a compensation act and I will do all I can to have the legislature pass it. That will mean that a proposition involving delay, but something which will hasten relief for those who suffer injury. I do not see why the judiciary should not have the correctness of its reasoning subjected to criticism."

"Legislature and court made law both are only the expression of the people of the time and a decision which may be just at one time may be quite impossible at a later date." Governor Hadley then referred to his fight with the Standard Oil company. "When I attacked the Standard Oil company four years ago it was protected by a rule of law that it could not be required to produce books and papers that might result in the conviction and fining of the company and that a corporation had the same rights as an individual."

FEARS GROW AS SEINE RISES.

Riverside Parlians Expect Another Flood; Canal Is Urged.

Paris, Nov. 16.—The riverside dwellers are not comforted by the official statement that the Seine will reach its maximum height Thursday, and another disaster is feared. The river advanced steadily at the rate of a half a centimeter. The government will push the project of a canal to divert the waters in time of flood, having become convinced the parapets are not adequate protection.

Barge Blinks; Six Drowned.

Newport News, Va., Nov. 16.—The whalerback barge, carrying Captain Soderberg and his crew of five men, sank off Fire Island, N. Y., after being run down by an unknown square-rigged ship. News of the tragedy was received in a telegram from Boston.

CHILD KILLS SELF IN GRIEF FOR DEAD MOTHER

Philadelphia Girl, Aged Ten, Found Lying Beside Wreath From Parent's Coffin.

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—With a bullet through her left eye and a revolver lying at her side little Harriet Owens, aged ten years, was found dead beside a wreath taken from the coffin of her mother in her home. Grief for her deceased parent had led her to self-destruction.

Constant grieving over the death of her mother four years ago, coupled with fear of the consequences of her absence from school, are believed to have preyed on her mind to an extent that led her to the deed.

Although she was only six years old when her mother died little Harriet was passionately attached to her parent and evinced more than usual grief at her death. A brother, then four years old, became her constant care, and before long she was known through the neighborhood as the "little mother."

Her father, William Owens, is a laborer in poor circumstances, unable to maintain his home without the help of his young daughter and she became housekeeper as well.

Neighborhood friends frequently found her sitting silently weeping at a wreath of immortelles which she had insisted on lifting from the casket which contained her mother's body and saving it.

Few persons live on the island and the food supply is small.

The telephone line, the sole means of communication with the island, went down and the stranded passengers are entirely cut off from the outside world.

Valuable Trade Secret.

An invaluable trade secret in the matter of banknote paper is preserved by the Bank of England. This secret is known only to the governor of the bank and to three other persons, and about all the outside world knows of the paper is that it is made of cotton and linen fibers—a strangely incongruous combination—are among the ingredients.—Sunday Magazine.

THE TWILIGHT CLUB DISCUSS WORK OF WALL STREET

of the country. There is no single institution in which it is located. On the other hand there are a number of groups in which this power of the country is centered. One of these groups is the associated banks of New York City, organized into the central clearing house association; another group consists of thirty or more trust companies; a third is the group of government institutions at New York consisting of the sub-treasury, assay office and the custom house; a fourth group is a number of private banks; a fifth comprises a number of branch banks of foreign countries including American correspondents for foreign banks; another consists of the New York stock exchange and the curb market. This group of institutions together with a host of brokers firms and a vast number of the head offices of railroads and trusts make up what is known as Wall street.

These groups constitute a very real mechanism because they are united by a number of bonds of interest. One of these connecting interests grows out of the fact that a large part of the banking reserves of the country are held by these institutions. National and state banks are required to maintain a certain percentage of the deposits of the banks held in reserve and a large amount of all the excess reserve business is held by the associated banks, and by six of them. Many of these banks hold balances of fifty millions of dollars from this one source.

These banks constitute the central money reservoir of the country. Money flows to these banks in the summer when it is not needed and in the fall at crop moving time the current flows in the opposite direction.

Another bond of connection exists in the New York sub-treasury which handles by far the greater amount of the fund of the United States government. The great reservoir of the U. S. government is located at Wall St. Wall street also forms the investment center of the country, and thus forms another connecting link with the rest of the nation. To facilitate investments the New York stock exchange was formed, one of the oldest financial institutions of the country. All the great companies of the country have their stocks listed in the stock exchange and are subject to the control of by-laws which have been drawn up to regulate the important trade. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the entire wealth of the country is listed in this institution. Practically everybody invests money the New York stock exchange. Insurance companies are invested as are also the savings deposits of our savings banks.

This mechanism of finance is greater today than ever before, due to the process of combination which has been carried on in the last twenty years. At the present time seven groups of financiers practically control the finances of the country, and of these, two predominate, the Standard Oil and Morgan groups, controlling 50 per cent of the railroads and 40 per cent of the trusts. Such rapid transformation and consolidation has taken place in Wall street has had no parallel and as a direct result of it the country is confronted with many problems.

It is a problem whether it is safe to have the interests of the country so centered in several private groups of individuals. The commercial and financial branches of the country's business are centered in their aspects; one has to do with the operation of the present enterprises and the other has to do with financing of new enterprises. The funds for these two functions should not be confused. The commercial interests of the country are sure to suffer if their funds are left in the hands of people who are primarily interested in affairs of finance and tend to speculation.

The one remedy which suggests itself for this state of affairs is the establishment of the central bank which will offer another place for the reserve of country banks and form another reservoir for the nation's money. It will keep the funds of the country out of the hands of Wall street speculators.

Another danger arising out of this system is that these two great groups with their controlling interests in the great business organizations are able to manipulate the stock market for their own benefit while the great mass of investors suffer. They have the power to raise or lower prices of the leading stocks at will and thus affect the interests of the entire nation.

The only solution for this problem seems to be to put securities on a basis that every investor may know what they are worth. Physical valuation of the property upon which the securities are based should be determined and from that a ratio can be ascertained between the real and capitalization values which will show what the securities are worth. This will end stock market manipulation.

CAVALIERI GETS CHANLER CASH.

Singer Takes $25,000 and Agrees to Stay Away From America.

New York, Nov. 16.—Lina Cavalieri has acquired more Chanler money. Not much this time, a mere trifle of $25,000 or so, but she didn't have to say "I love you" to get it. She merely had to declare:

"I agree not to come to America to sing during the operatic and concert season of 1910-11."

As a guarantee of good faith she affixed her interesting signature to a legal document pledging that she would remain away from America and not appear to add further confusion to the rest of the Chanlers, who haven't relaxed their relative.

Quabert, pastor of the German Lutheran church, officiated in the presence of eighty relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Khorn live on a farm between Delavan and Darion. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was served.

Confidence and Success.

The man who has mastered his temper, disciplined his mind, schooled himself so as to conform to the amenities and pleasantness of life is on the broad road to success, for others will be attracted towards him as the flies to honey, he will budget confidence, and confidence is one of the corner stones which must be laid strong and deep before you can commence to build the edifice called success.

Auctioneer's Hourglass.

An auctioneer of this city collects all sorts of objects pertaining to his ancient calling. He has, among other things, an interesting set of auctioneer's hour glasses.

The Auctioneer of a century or so ago ended a sale not by saying, "Going—going—gone!" and rapping the counter with his hammer, but it was his better method to turn up a free running glass toward the end of the bidding and to end the sale irretrievably when the sands ran out. This saved confusion and dispute.

The auctioneer's glasses in the Philadelphia collection are picturesque. One is of tortoise shell and mother of pearl. Another is of amber and gold. A third is of oak and ivory.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Paying by Check.

The peanut vendor had a white elephant on his hands in the shape of a check for $1.05.

"Dish 'em no good," he said. "I wanta da mon."

Having ascertained just where the check came from, a systematic customer passed over "da mon" in exchange for the check and then started an investigation of somebody's reasons for buying five-cent bags of peanuts on time. Finally the woman who had introduced a new wrinkle into the credit system was cornered for an interview.

"I pay for everything by the month," she said, "absolutely everything—groceries, dry goods, drugs, stationery, hair dressing, and church dues, and I see no reason why I should make an exception in peanuts."

Solicitor General Henry M. Hoyt, head of the reciprocity commission in conference.

Ottawa—The arrival of Henry M. Hoyt, solicitor of the department of state of the United States, and Chas. M. Pepper from Washington, for the purpose of negotiating a reciprocity treaty with Canada, has been followed by an advance guard of special representatives of interests to be affected.

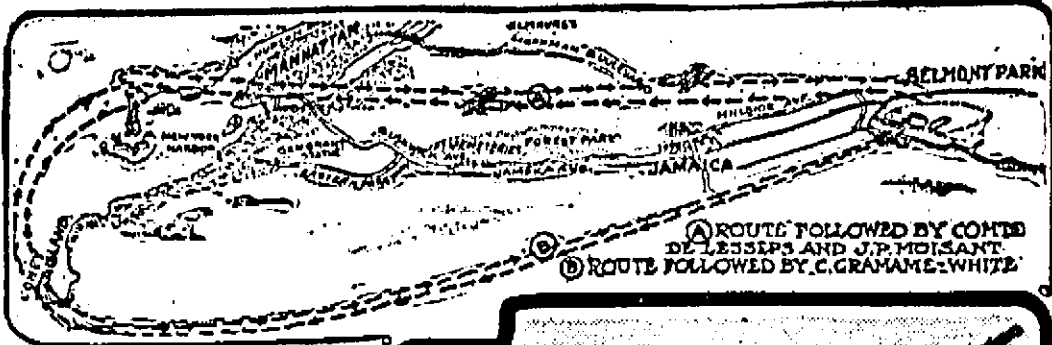

Foremost among these are promoters of new Canadian paper mill enterprises and railway promoters holding charters for projected railways, which if built would become the owners of large tracts of timber lands granted to them by way of subsidies for new railway construction and in turn offered to prospective builders of paper mills in Canada.

Representatives of United States paper makers are also flocking into Ottawa and the revisionists and Canada standpoints are in evidence on every hand. John Norris of the American Newspaper Publishers' association is here and will remain here for some time.

Other Canadian manufacturers are loudly objecting to any sort of reciprocity, while from the Canadian west comes a distinct demand for lower duties on American agricultural machinery.

The real work of the commissioners has begun. The commissioners have brought a clerical force with them and it is understood that their work will last for several weeks. The preliminary work will be directed to providing material for President Taft to use in his message to congress in December.

John B. Moissant making the turn at Statue of Liberty, showing him as a mere speck in the sky in the upper right-hand corner. Map showing the course traversed by the three daring aviators who made the trip to the Statue of Liberty and back.

New York.—The closing days in the international aviation meet at Belmont park were days of the most reckless aerial driving and daring, in which the American participants won out. The triumph of John Moissant in his 50 horse-power Blériot over foreign competitors with their specially constructed racing machines having twice the power of his, is a record in which all Americans take unusual pride.

The triumph of Ralph Johnstone in his baby Wright, when he soared into the skies 3,714 feet and coasted down, his estimated fall at certain points being at the rate of 200 miles an hour, was another aviation triumph in which Yankee nerve won out.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The announcement that Jimmy Barrett of Detroit, the former big league star, had been signed as manager of the Milwaukee American Association club, to succeed John J. McCloskey, caused much comment in baseball circles. Jimmy, although not very old in years, is included among the once famous diamond stars and he is expected to make good. Right now Barrett has lines out for several youngsters and he does not anticipate much trouble getting help from several major league clubs. But Jimmy wants youngsters and wants to build up a first division team for Milwaukee.

Thinking Pleasant Things.

Make yourselves hosts of pleasant thoughts. None of us yet knows, for none of us has been taught in early youth, what fairy palaces we may build of beautiful thoughts, proof against all adversity—bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure houses of precious and restful thoughts, which care can not disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands, for our souls to live in.—John Ruskin.

Some Irish History.

Ireland was inhabited before the dawn of history by Iberian folk of the original people of Spain or pre-Aryan tribes like other parts of western Europe. Legends of Ireland record the successive invasion by five races, including Nemedians, Firbolgas, Tuatha, de Danann and Milesians. According to Irish legendary history the Milesians descend from King Milesius of Spain, whose two sons are said to have conquered Ireland about 1200 B. C.

Happy Time Ahead.

member of the all-American team which toured the coast in 1902 under the leadership of Joe Cantillon.

The new manager of the Brewers one of the famous veterans of the national game, was born on March 23, 1875, at Athol, Mass. He made a reputation as an amateur ball-player at his home and became a member of the Brattleboro (Vt.) Independent team. He made his professional debut in 1898 with the Owego club of the New York State league. His batting record for the year was .332 and his fielding percentage .949. He had shown such fine form that season that several National league clubs made offers for his release and the Cincinnati club succeeded in purchasing it. He played with Cincinnati until 1901, when during the American league expansion movement he jumped to the Detroit club, with which club he remained until 1903, when he was released and rejoined the Cincinnati club for a season. In 1906 he injured his knee and was released. In 1906 he played for a season in the New York State league and did such splendid work that upon recommendation of Tim Lincecum he was purchased by the Boston American league club for 1907. He started the season well, but again injured his knee and was laid up a goodly part of the season. In 1908 he joined the Chicago White Sox for a time and then went to Providence. In 1909 and 1910 he wore a flower uniform and played in the outfield.

NELSON TO FACE MORAN ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

San Francisco.—Battling Nelson and Owen Moran will settle their ring differences Thanksgiving Day in Louis Blot's open air arena here, the structure which was planned as the meeting place for Al Kaufman and Sam Langford on the occasion marked by police interference. The promoters are banking on the bout between the Dane and the Britisher to draw a big crowd, hence their anxiety to secure one of the largest arenas possible. The contest will be decided in the afternoon. Talk is going the rounds of the local fight world to the effect that Nelson and Alton Lagrave, the pride of Butchertown, will be matched in the near future for a return contest. At the last meeting of the pair Lagrave had the edge in the weights by a matter of two pounds. When the fighters were weighing in Nelson noted the overweight of his opponent and claimed Lagrave's forfeit of $250.

In the event Nelson fails to grant Lagrave a return battle the Butchertown Terror will be sent against Paeky McFarland. The latter is said to be considering another trip to this section of the country, and promoters already are on the job seeking to match the Chicagoan with Lagrave, who just at present looms up one of the biggest drawing cards on the coast.

What to Say.

One of the problems of social life is to know what to say to one another when we meet; every man and woman's desire is to appear sympathetic and clever, and this makes conversation difficult, because taking us all round, we are neither sympathetic nor clever.—Jerome K. Jerome.

Reading and Comprehending.

Thou mayest as well expect to grow stronger by always eating as wisier by always reading. Too much overcharges nature and turns more into disease than nourishment. 'Tis thought and digestion which make books serviceable and give health and vigor to the mind.—Fuller.

 thought I could not endure it.

"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one time it came over me and I asked myself what the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I could indulge myself in coffee?"

"So I thought I would see if I could get something better and got some Peppermint to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had the Peppermint which I now like better than the old coffee."

"One by one the old troubles left,
 until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right and the pain all gone. Never had any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my household work and have done a great deal besides."

ARE IGNORANT OF
IMPERIAL DECREE

Local Chinamen Had Not Heard of the Imperial Order for Severing Queues.

In spite of the fact that the edict went forth from the celestial kingdom some days ago that the foreign representatives of China in strange lands should sever their queues, Chinamen in Janesville are not in the least disturbed about it, or the rumor that this decree is but a forerunner of another soon to follow to the effect that all Chinamen must part with their pig-tails. In fact, Sing Lee and others of his race in this city are not even aware that such a decree has been issued, and are pursuing their usual occupations without giving a thought to the impossible little about imperial edicts. In fact, Janesville Chinamen are not aware of the oriental land of silk and tea are industrious, and do not allow vague rumors or actual happenings to disturb them. Like many of their people in this country they do not take any of the Chinese newspapers which are printed in this country, in San Francisco and New York, and so are not as well posted as their brethren in the city of Madison, for instance.

In the Capital City the hundertmen and chop suey chefs are quite excited over the edict and it is the cause of more discussion than the formation of a parliament. Although the newspaper reports are known to be correct, the Chinamen at Madison are willing to await the arrival of some official communication to verify the current rumors.

The presence of the University in that city seems to have had an effect upon the Chinamen, as it is claimed that scores of newspapers are subscribed for by the colonialists there.
 And not only that but one of the favorite forms of their amusement is to listen to a $40 Victor phonograph reel off operative successes of the season in Peking. It is said these selections differ somewhat from the silver tones of some of our stars, but they have their good points which John Chinamen fully appreciate.

Regarding the severance of their traditional braides or queues it may be conjectured that they will be retained and will not be discarded until it is known definitely that they may be cut off without impairing their chances of returning to their native land. And even then many will be loath to part with that mark which has been for so many centuries one of the most obvious characteristics of the Chinese race.

RETAILERS PLAN TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Supper at the Myers Monday Evening Next Will Be First of Its Kind in City.

On next Monday night at the Myers Hotel the Retail Committee of the Industrial and Commercial Club has planned to give a supper, which according to the tickets being sold to the retail merchants, is "The Janesville Retailers First Get Together Supper."

Mr. Henry Detrick, Chairman of the Club's Retail Committee says that several plans for boosting the Janesville Retailers will be given out at this supper.

Mr. Leo H. Bloer, Secretary of the Winona (Minn.) Merchants and Business Men's Association, will be the speaker of the evening and according to Mr. Detrick the local Commercial Club's secretary the retailers are very fortunate in getting Mr. Bloer.

Mr. Bloer has been the Secretary of the Winona Association for several years and has accomplished much for the business men of his city. He will speak here on the subject of "The Money Made and Saved Through a Rating Bureau."

The tickets for this first get together supper are being distributed to the retailers by the local committee—every retailer will be called upon and every retailer should get a ticket. There will only be 100 places and the committee announces that they will not attempt to accommodate more than that number. Tickets can be secured at the Commercial Club rooms.

RABBITS PLENTIFUL
THROUGH COUNTRY

Local Hunters Say That Many Will Be Killed This Winter—in Their Prime Now.

The season for hunting rabbits is on. With the coming of the cold weather about two weeks ago, hun-ders who up to that time had been in search of duck and other members of the family, that use wings as a means of transit, now turn to the fleet footed rabbit as a delicious morsel for the most particular appetite as well as a means of satisfying their lust for sport. Many hunters from Janesville and nearby towns will be themselves to the woods in the hope of getting a short at members of the "bunny" family.

Rabbits are seldom fit to eat earlier than this time of the year. It all depends on the weather, however. Should it be cold, it gives the rabbits a chance to harden and thus make them fit to eat. If it is warm it is just the opposite. In years gone by when the winters were much more severe than at present, rabbits were frequently hunted and shot as early as the first of September. This year, however, it was a mild form of fall weather, and as a consequence rabbits were not fit to eat previous to this.
 Many hunters who were wont to roam
 the fields where the members of this family are to be had, many years ago,
 did not go out in these days until after the first snow fall. This was done with two ends in view. First, it was generally conceded rabbits were not fit to eat so early, and second, it was always easier to capture them owing to the means afforded to track them by their footprints in the snow. Hunters nowadays do not wait for the last named sign before venturing out in search of them, the many people who are now in quest of rabbits, bidding
 all of them get out as soon as possible.

This time of the year is generally regarded as breeding time for rabbits, and when over this is in progress they are generally soft and not fit to eat.

Many complaints have been made by hunters throughout the state against the giving of licenses to those who are not able to distinguish the different species of water fowl. On several occasions claim these people, Italians in particular, have been led into court for violations of the hunting laws. On these occasions they have been guilty of shooting most any species of bird. They do not confine their attentions and shells to that species of fowl allowed to be shot, but shoot anything that is possessed of a pair of wings. Robins, blue birds, quail, song birds and many others have been shot by these people, purely out of ignorance. Prominent sportsmen in this section are of the opinion that some sort of examination should be passed by those applying for a hunting license to see if they know the difference between the fowl.

Civility of the Young.

A friend asks what department of education has in charge the teaching of civility to the young. He says that in one day he was accosted by a crowd in a schoolhouse yard with the query:
 "Hey, you on't the bicycle, got a knife?"
 and by a messenger boy on the street with: "Say, what time is it?" His query is respectfully referred to school teachers and parents in general.

SPORTSMEN REPORT

GAME FISH DYING

Hunters at Lake Koshkonong Find Many Large Pickerel, Pike and Bass Injured by Carp Fishers' Nets.

Local sportsmen are indignant over the reports that come from Lake Koshkonong of the numbers of game fish, that becoming entangled in the big nets of the carp fishers, had been so injured that they had died within the past few months. One hunter reports finding some sixty good sized fish in the shallow waters that had been thus injured and a tale is told of a man who got a wagon load of this kind but a few weeks ago, except for a few holes over springs so that the danger for the present year is about over, but it is pointed out that unless radical steps are taken next spring the fine fishing is going to be spoiled by the greed of the carp fishers to secure large hauls.

This wanton destruction of a large number of the game fish at Lake Koshkonong has been going on for some time. A number of nets were set out for the catching of carp and a great many of these fish are taken out. But at the same time many of the game fish become entangled in the meshes of the nets and are left on the shore of the lake to die. Pike, pickerel, silver bass, and other varieties are strung along the shores in large numbers.

Such actions are nothing more nor less than violations of the state game laws and the offenders can be victoriously punished. Wisconsin has done much for the protection of the fish in her native streams; the state fish commission has worked hard in pursuing and protecting the rare varieties of fish and carefully placing them in the lakes and streams in various parts of the state. It is not right that their work should be undone by careless fishermen.

There are simple laws on our statute books which protect the game of all kinds and which provide severe penalties for their violation. Offenders who are so bold in their depredations on these just reported, are sure to be found out and they may expect no alleviation in the handling of their cases.

In Dire Peril.
 There is a woman in Brookline whose nearsightedness brought on an odd situation the other day. While waiting for a car she noticed a man with what she supposed to be a cane, making his way slowly toward the car tracks. Thinking that he was in danger of being run over, she hastened out and grasped him by the arm.
 Then she discovered that he was a switch tender.—Boston Record.

Years No Handicap to Genius.
 In the world of art Michelangelo produced his best work, "The Last Judgment," when he was between 58 and 68, and at 87 he completed the great cupon of St. Peter's, the triumph of architectural genius, a feat which caused him to exclaim: "I have swung the Pantheon in air," as the dome of the immense church resembles the pagan temple. Leonardo da Vinci did his best work when over 60.

African "Sundowner."
 There are many etymological excuses for drinking, as an "appetizer," or a "stirrup," or a "nightcap."
 The "sundowner" is peculiar to the west coast of Africa. It has nothing to do with the Australian "sundowner," who is a sort of tramp. All down the west coast of Africa is a quarter of an hour between the day's heat and night's languor, which comes with a chill. It is a sort of religious ceremonial to share a "sundowner" at this time and ward off the chill.

Answer This Question

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge the world to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the famous woman's remedy for women's ills. Unless it is a very good medicine and the claims made for it are honest, such a record would have been impossible—fraud or misrepresentations would long ago have been detected and the business gone into oblivion. Read this unsolicited letter:—

Corry, Pa.—"I am happy to write you about the benefit I received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my marriage two years ago, I suffered something awful every month with pains and other distressing symptoms, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. Since then I have never been troubled with pain, not even a dull backache or headache, and it has helped me a good deal before childbirth. I recommend your medicine wherever I go."—Mrs. E. E. Ross, 112 E. Church St., Corry, Pa.

When a woman like Mrs. Ross is generous enough to write such a letter as the above for publication, she should at least be given credit for a sincere desire to help other suffering women. For we assure you there is no other reason why she should court such publicity.

We say it in all sincerity and friendship—try this medicine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

TEST BADLY DAMAGES WARSHIPS

New Outside Explosive Nearly Sinks the Monitor Puritan.

Fortress Monroe, Va., Nov. 16.—The monitor Puritan was rushed to the Norfolk navy yard in a sinking condition after having undergone two terrible explosions to test the effect of an unconfined blast of high power nitroglycerine.

The first explosion cracked the armor of the aft turret badly, and the second, which was against the side of the ship aft, stove in the armor plate and opened bad leaks in the ship below the water line, flooding a big compartment of the vessel. Each test was with 200 pounds of high explosive.

OKLAHOMA CITY LOSES CAPITAL

State Supreme Court Decides It Must Remain at Guthrie.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 16.—Oklahoma City lost the state capital fight, when the supreme court decided that the seat of the state government must remain in Guthrie. The court held that the election on the amendment to remove the capital to Oklahoma City was void because of defects in the title of the ballot.

When he heard of the decision Governor Haskell announced that he would call a special session of the legislature to convene December 2 to decide upon a permanent location for the capital.

Coal Dust and Tuberculosis

Tuberculosis is much less common among coal miners than among other classes of people. According to the United States census statistics, miners and quarrymen occupy third place in the scale of tuberculosis mortality, only lungers and farmers being more immune. Coal dust antagonizes tuberculosis, when already present, and many physicians have treated the disease by inhalation of coal dust.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

Novelized by
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
From the Play of the Same Name by
WINCHELL SMITH

Copyright, 1910, by Winchell Smith and Louis Joseph Vance

"No, not now, Nat." Betty, too, got up. "I think I'd better go home and see father. I mustn't forget!" She flattered, half-blinded by the mist of the happiness before her eyes.

"No—wait!" She stopped to find his gaze full upon her. For the first time he comprehended that she had not understood—that, worst of all, she had misunderstood. "I must tell you," he blurted desperately; "I must."

Instinctively she moved a step toward him. He hung his head.

"Tonight, Betty—this evening, just a little while ago, I became engaged to Josie Lockwood."

She stood as if petrified throughout a wait that seemed to both interminable.

"Oh, Nat, dear," she said, "I'm so glad for you. I wish you all the happiness in the world. — Good night." The hand slipped out of Nat's. He did not move, but waited there with his empty palm outstretched, despair in his eyes and hell in his heart, while she walked quietly from the store.

After some time he awoke to the knowledge that she was gone.

"Blithering fool!" he growled. "Why didn't I know I loved her like this?" He took a turn to and fro, distracted. "And now I've made a mess of everything. Good Lord, what can I do? I must do something or go mad!" He swung round behind the soda fountain counter and seized a bottle. "I know what! The rules are off! I can have a drink! I can have two drinks! I can have a million drinks if I want 'em!"

Pouring a generous dose of raw whisky into the glass, he lifted it to his lips and threw back his head. But the heavy bouquet of the liquor was stilling in his nostrils, and the first mouthful of it almost choked him. In a fury he flung the glass from him so that it crashed and splintered upon the floor. "Great heavens," he cried, "I don't like the stuff any more! But—" his gaze fell upon the cigar case—"I can have a smoke. That'll help some!"

With feverish haste he snatched a cigar from the nearest box, gnawed off one end and, thrusting the other into the alcohol lighter, puffed vigorously. But to his renovated palate the potent fumes of the tobacco were no less repugnant than the whisky had been. "That stunked," he plucked the cigar from his mouth and stamped on it.

"Oh," he cried wildly, "I'll be—I'll be damned!"

He paused, staring vacantly at nothing. "And even that doesn't do any good! God help me, I've forgotten how to swear!"

To him in this overwrought state came Tracey, lumbering cheerfully in his mouth shaped for a whistle. At sight of Nat he pulled up as if hit by a club.

"Evening, Mr. Duncan. What's the matter?"

By an effort Nat brought his gaze to bear upon the boy and comprehended his existence.

"Ain't you feelin' well, Mr. Duncan?"

"No—rotten!"

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing!" Nat shouted furiously.

"Anything I kin—"

"No!"

"At that instant Kellogg appeared. 'Hello, Nat! What's been keeping you?' He came down to bring you home to supper."

"Go to blazes with your supper! Keep away from me! Don't talk to me! I don't want anything to do with you, if you understand? You and your confounded systems have got me into all this!"

He caught sight of his hat abruptly, ceased talking, grabbed the hat and

CHAPTER XXII

BUT at the doorstep of the Methodist church Nat hesitated. The building was dimly lighted, for it was choir practice night, and the door was ajar, but he couldn't bring himself to enter.

Raving and ranting with the extravagance of youth, he passed through the village, out into the open country, and, in the course of an hour and a half, back, all blindly, circling back to the store, in the course of his wanderings, as instinctively as a carrier pigeon shapes its course for home.

It was with incredulity that he found himself again in that cheerful, cheerless, homely place. But there he was when he came out of his abstraction—there in those familiar surroundings, with Tracey's round red face beaming at him over the clear stand like a lively counterfeiter of the round red moon he had watched lift up into the skies, back there in the still countryside, just as he paused to turn back to town.

He recollected his faculties and resumed command of himself sufficiently to acknowledge Tracey's greeting with a moody word.

"All right, Tracey," he said abruptly. "You may go now. I'll shut up the store."

He looked at his watch and was surprised to discover that it was no later than half past 8. He seemed to have lived a lifetime in the last few hours.

"Thank you, sir," said Tracey, with a flush of gratitude. "The first bag is with off. Angle's within."

"Angle?"

"Good evening, Mr. Duncan."

"Oh, Miss Tuttle!" Nat discovered that little rogue, all smiles and dimples and blushes, not distant from his elbow. "I didn't see you—I was thinking."

"Guess we know what you was thinkin' about," observed Tracey, bringing his hat round the counter. "Everybody in town's talkin' about it."

"About what?"

"Ah, you know about what, and we're mighty glad of it, and we want to congratulate you, don't we, Angle?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, Mr. Duncan. It's just too sweet for anything."

"O Lord!" groaned Nat.

GIFTS MADE IN A DAY.

Suggestions For Women With the "Put Off" Habit.

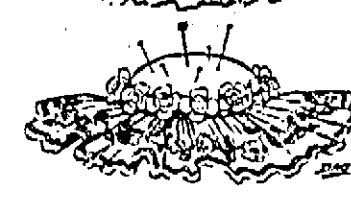

"Only a day until Christmas and not one-half of the presents ready!" This is the exclamation one hears every year, and usually with the addition of, "Next year I will begin in plenty of time," and usually this promise is broken; consequently many women will be glad of new ideas for holiday gifts that may be easily made in a day.

With a bit of ribbon and a few scraps of lace a woman can easily make the most adorable little bit of fancy work in an amazingly short time. The color and texture of the ribbon go a long way toward the beauty of the finished article.

Ribbon has many advantages over silk for most fancy work articles. It is easier to work on, as there are no edges to be hemmed; the whole design may be used, where with silk the figures may come out anywhere. There is more variety in color and design from which to choose, and more neatness is possible, as flatter edges may be kept.

Lamp Shade and Pincushion.

The lamp shade and pincushion illustrated are both easily made in a day. The little candle shade is made by gathering one and one-half inches from each edge of a piece of ribbon. Sew the gathered ribbon over a candle shade and conceal the stitches with a gold cord. A taffeta ribbon with rose sprays in natural colors and a pink satin edge is most effective. The pincushion is of white taffeta ribbon, having a red satin stripe and figures and red satin ribbon flowers. This is a delightful Christmas present, as it is made of that season's gay colors.

A New Double Bag.

Bags are always acceptable, and each season new designs are brought out for the holidays.

The newest is a double bag—that is, one placed over the other. The inner one is usually of pink silk or ribbon, the outer of brocade or hand embroidered fabric. The first bag is made in the usual way—that is, the sides sewed and the top finished with a drawstring. The outer bag must also be sewed at the sides, but in the center it is slashed from the top down three inches or more and the corners turned back, revers fashion. These are faced with plain goods. One corner may display an initial, or all four may be decorated with sequins or any device the owner pleases.

The bags are made one within the other and firmly secured at the ends. The inner bag will hold the opera glasses, while the outer pockets serve as receptacles for the handkerchief, powder puff, etc. This is another example of a dainty present that can be made with small effort and for little expense.

Putting Women on Jury.

Putting women on juries that hear divorce cases was a suggestion made recently by Cecil Chapman, Tower bridge police court magistrate of London, to the English divorce commission that is trying to work out a problem that magistrates should have power to grant divorces to poor persons and thus save expenses.

The Human Owl.

The cynic is one who never sees a good quality in a man, and never fails to see a bad one. He is the human owl, vigilant in darkness and blind to light, mousing for vermin and never seeing noble game.—Henry Ward Beecher.
